DISCUSSES CATHEDRALS

Miss Dykes Talks to Art Class About Architecture of Cathedrals Which She Visited in England.

Miss Dykes lectured on "English Cathedrals" to the class in History and Appreciation of Art, Thursday morning.

A diagram was used to show the floor plan of the English cathedral, which is in the form of a cross, representing the crucifixion. The transepts represent the arms of the cross. The altar represents the head of Christ. Just back of the altar is the Lady Chapel representing the head of Christ pillowed in the lap of the Virgin. The central tower represents the spear in the side of Christ and the west towers represent the nails in the feet. Pinnacles and tiny spires represent nails and thorns. Canterbury and Salisbury were used as illustrations as Canterbury is the simple cross form and Salisbury is the double cross.

The Saxon work in the church of St. Martin's at Canterbury was shown and the very heavy stone work and broad flat arches were pointed out. To illustrate the early Norman work, a picture was shown of the Round Church at Cambridge with its heavy round arches and massive pillars.

A queer fact concerning the Norman Church of St. Bartholomew the Great, founded in 1123, was disclosed. It was supposed to be a complete church until in 1915 a German bomb fell, shattering the doorway of a business house and disclosing some interesting bits of stone carving which corresponded to that of the church back of it. It turned out that the church standing was only the choir and that part of the nave had been turned into these business houses and the rest pulled down. Since then workmen have gone on with the work of finding out more about the nave and have discovered also an extensive crypt. At this point Miss Dykes added, "It might be of interest to American literature students to know that Benjamin Franklin once worked in a print shop which occupied the building before the discovery of the cathedral was made." From this church the arrangement of the triforium and clerestory was explained. With Durham, the elaborate stone carving of the Norman chevron was illustrated. The unique feature was the Lady chapel on the west end. The tomb of the Venerable Bede is in this chapel.

Miss Dykes showed the transition of the Norman architecture to the Gothic by illustrating, first, with the little church of Morthoe, which still kept the piers of the Norman instead of replacing them with columns, but combined with them the pointed arches of the Gothic. Ely and Lincoln were also pictured to illustrate the transition. In Lincoln the clustered columns take the place of piers, lending grace and height. Lincoln makes an excellent place to study the transition because the front of the building is pure Norman and the whole church shows every stage up to the pure Gothic in the last five bays of the choir.

Miss Dykes referred to Wells as her favorite cathedral. The exterior is of white stone, mellowed with age until it is almost the same color as the Winged Victory which stands in the art room at the college. Originally there were 400 statues on the outside of the building; now there are about 300 standing. The reflection of the building as seen in the old moat which is still filled with water makes a picturesque scene.

York Minister, overlooking the queer old medieval town, with its walls dating back to 1327 is famous for the height of its nave, 99½ feet, and for its exquisite stained glass. When Miss Dykes visited York last summer, the glass was being restored by casing each tiny bit in thin clear glass. York has a most beautiful east window. It is the largest sheet of medieval glass in England, 78 feet in height and 31 feet in width, and dates back to the beginning of the fifteenth century.

King's College Chapel at Cambridge was used as an example of fan-vaulting. The interior has the elaborate fan-vaulting starting from between the stained glass windows and extends the entire length of the chapel which is 391 feet. There are 26 of these sixteenth century windows. Miss Dykes was in the chapel just for Evensong, when the sun was low, and says that words can hardly express the beauty of the scene as the light filtered thru the lovely colored glass, and the

Social Science Club Encourages Research

Plans to Offer Rewards for Research Activities in Field of Various Social Sciences.

Research activities on the part of the students of S. T. C. are to be materially recognized by the Social Science Club of the college. Essie Ward, Blanche Erickson, and David Nicholson were named as a committee by Mary Tiggs, president of the club, to formulate a plan of award for student research work in the social science field.

It is the object of the club to complete the rules for eligibility for the prizes to be awarded, in order that students may compete next year.

At the regular meeting of the Social Science Club held last Thursday night at the home of Mr. Foster, the club went on record as favoring a more extensive movement to the end that citizenship as taught in the schools may carry over into the daily life of high school pupils and college students. A committee composed of Ernest Coler, Garland Miller, and Hazel Hunt was appointed to confer with President Lamkin in regard to what action the club would be permitted to take.

Officers for the summer term will be elected at the next meeting. Members of the committee are: Floyd Harvey, chairman; Elsie Brown, Mrs. C. E. Rising.

At the close of the program session, Mrs. Foster served delicious refreshments. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. A. J. Cauffman, Mrs. T. H. Cook, Mrs. J. R. Wallin, and Mrs. Louise Hastings.

Rumor Is Groundless

The local press carried the story last week that the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College had protested against the establishment by the University of Missouri of a summer school in St. Joseph. This rumor is entirely without foundation because the College made no such protest. In fact there was no reason for such action, in view of the fact that, according to authoritative evidence, the University of Missouri had no intention of starting an extension school in St. Joseph for the benefit of summer students. It is the belief of the university that all teachers should arrange to be in residence at the university or at one of the State Teachers Colleges if they desire to do college work during the summer.

Herschel M. Colbert Is Major of Infantry

Former Student, Son of Dean Colbert, Receives Commission After Taking Examination for Promotion.

Herschel M. Colbert, a former student at S. T. C., and a graduate of the School of Journalism at the University of Missouri in 1915, received his commission on March 27 as Major of Infantry in the United States Army. Mr. Colbert is the son of Dean and Mrs. George H. Colbert, and is the editor of the Gallatin Democrat.

The following is taken from an article published recently in the Gallatin North Missourian:

"Editor Colbert has held the rank of captain in the United States Army since August, 1917. Recently he took the examination for promotion and is now a full-fledged major. Editor Colbert served in the World War as a captain, and at the camp where he received his training was one of the rank. He was commended frequently for his military efficiency, and in the past three years he has been called each summer to be an officer in the Citizen's Military Camp. His ability as an instructor in military science has been often recognized, and doubtless Major Colbert will again be called to serve this summer in one of the training camps."

"THE BEST IN MUSIC FOR NORTHWEST MISSOURI" IS SLOGAN FOR ANNUAL SPRING MUSIC FESTIVAL

"The Best in Music for Northwest Missouri" is the slogan for the Fourth Annual Spring Music Festival of the State Teachers College of Maryville, Missouri, to be held May 1-6 in the College Auditorium. With the slogan in mind the College is happy to say to the people of Northwest Missouri that they may have the privilege of hearing one of the great orchestras of the United States.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, with its distinguished conductor, Henri Verbrugghen, and with Marie Tiffany, soprano soloist, will appear in two concerts on May 4. This is one of the outstanding events of the Fourth Annual Spring Music Festival. This famous orchestra has become a national musical asset, as well as one of the most prized possessions of the city of Minneapolis. During the twenty-two years of its life, the orchestra has been one of the most powerful factors in the musical growth of the Mississippi Valley and adjacent territory. It gives annually 65 concerts in the Twin Cities and 100 on its tours which usually comprise about twelve weeks of traveling.

Henri Verbrugghen, conductor for the past two years, has led the players to new heights of achievement. Critics everywhere acclaim the orchestra as one of the best, and Verbrugghen as master. Mr. Verbrugghen is a Belgian, born in Brussels, where at the beginning of his musical career he was a favorite violin pupil of Eugene Ysaeye. As concertmaster of several noted European orchestras he had an experience in orchestral routine that gave him a thorough equipment for his subsequent work. His career as a conductor covers a long record of brilliant successes in London, Brussels, Berlin, Munich, and Petrograd. In 1915 he was called to Sydney, Australia, by the Minister of Education, to take charge of the musical development of that country. Within a short time he created a fine symphony or-

Appropriations for College Total $693,028

Over-Appropriation of State Revenue May Force Governor to Refuse to Release Whole Amount.

A total appropriation of $693,028 has been allowed for the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College for 1925-1926 by the state legislature. This whole amount is subject to release by Governor Baker, however; the revenues of the state are very largely over-appropriated, and the Governor will doubtless reduce the appropriations very materially.

The amount which was allowed, pending action by the governor, includes $200,000 for the new training school building; $333,028 for salaries; $30,000 for fuel, light and water; $10,000 for student labor; $5,000 for rural education; $45,000 for supplies, repairs on campus, gymnasium equipment, farm buildings and stock; $30,000 for alterations and repairs on the administration building; $30,000 for a new boiler and changes in the power plant; and $10,000 for the library.

The legislature also allowed a deficiency appropriation of $54,189.64 which includes $11,176.92 for coal up to January 1, 1925; $15,275 for paving, including interest to April 2, 1925; and $27,737.72 for salaries for the months of November and December, 1924.

Marie Cloud Gives Senior Voice Recital

Her Unusual Ability in Rendition of Varied Program and Her Charming Stage Presence Wins Approval.

Mr. Luther A. Richman, head of the voice department of the college conservatory of music, presented Marie Cloud in her senior voice recital on Wednesday morning, April 15, at the regular assembly hour. Miss Cloud displayed unusual ability in her interpretation of so varied a program, which represented vocal compositions from the early works of Purcell to the modern Russian and American songs. The entire program follows:

Fly, Fly, Fly—J.M.
I attempt from Lovesickness to Fly—Purcell.
Passing By—Purcell.
Hedge Roses—Schubert.
Whither—Schubert.
My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice—Saint-Saens.
(Samson and Delilah)
One Who Has Yearned Alone—Tchaikovsky.
Cradle Song (Pskovityanka)—Rimsky-Korsakov.
At Night—Rachmaninoff.
Pierrot—Robert.
Pale Moon—Logan.
Come to the Fair—Martin.

The opening group of old classics by Purcell and Schubert were sung with an assurance that won the immediate approval of the audience. The aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," brought out the beauty and warmth of the soloist's voice and her exceptional breath control perhaps better than any other number presented. To many in the audience, the most delightful songs were those in the Russian group. The moods of the different composers were given a delicate and colorful interpretation. The atmosphere of lonely sorrow in "One Who Yearns Alone," of exquisite tenderness in the "Cradle Song," and of passionate love in "At Night." The program came to a brilliant close with the vivacious rendition of the three modern English songs.

Miss Cloud's delightful stage presence added much to the enjoyment of her recital. She sang each number with the graceful ease which is characteristic of her performance. Ruth Houchens gave excellent support to Marie Cloud through her well-interpreted and sympathetic accompaniments.

COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws, and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the students' sense of duty. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

SPRING HAS COME.

"I'll tell you one sure sign of spring,
You begin to feel as dumb as every-thing.
The tulips are in blossom,
The cows come to their corn—
And Little Boy Blue sure has to blow his horn.
The flowers are in blossom,
The air is getting warm,
The tulips are a-blooming,
The flies begin to swarm."

The foregoing verses were written by Mary Edna Lauber, a "Fourth A" girl of the college, demonstration school. They were not written as a class project but are entirely her own work without suggestion from anyone.

High School Notes.

BOLCKOW.

The Parnell High School gave the play, "Assisted by Sadie," last Thursday and Friday nights, April 16 and 17, in the Parnell Opera House. The proceeds went for the expense of literary and athletic activities.

ST. JOSEPH.

The senior class of the Lafayette High School presented "Contents Unknown," a three-act mystery play written by Lindsay Barbee, in the school auditorium, Thursday, April 16, at eight o'clock.

PRINCETON.

Princeton High School sends thanks to President Lamkin and S. T. C. for the Green and White and the Annual Book them.

Princeton High has been active this year. February 5, the orchestra gave their first annual full evening concert, "A Spanish Overture," "The Toreadors" was presented March 10. Princeton won the cup in a basket-ball tournament at the latter part of the season. Princeton took both the grade and the county cups at the annual county meet and field meet, April 4. The basketball team won two out of five games. Two chemistry themes were scored in the National and State Chemistry Contest. A complete health check-up was given.
The Board of S. T. C., Dr. R. Russell, Dr. J. H. Hays, and Prof.

C. Miller, supervisor of public school music, Rochester, New York, have given lectures. The school has also been entertained by the Boys Wesleyan Glee club of Cameron and "The Missourians"—an orchestra and group of entertainers.

Princeton plans to send a boys' and girls' track team to the track and field meet at S. T. C. Two plays are in progress; the Junior class play, "Amazon Isle" and the Senior class play, "The Whole Town's Talking."

Each week Princeton High School shows pictures to the school and each Saturday under the direction of the Vocational Agriculture teacher, Mr. G. A. Tumbleson, gives a free picture to the farmers.

Two of the fifty-four graduates of this year have been awarded State letters. Superintendent Stephen G. LaMar has been awarded his State College letter.

Mr. LaMar is an S. T. C. man.

INDUSTRIAL ART DEPARTMENT

Mr. E. Daniels has completed a fine piece of work on a davenport table. The material is walnut and the design a modification of an Italian Renaissance style which Mr. Daniels worked out in Fine Arts class; he also had the help of Mr. Glenn in part of the designing. After the construction oil was applied for darkening and a wax finish used.

During the track meet the wood turning class will have a display of articles in the cases on second floor.

For the past week Mr. Lawrence has been busy in the Industrial Art rooms making hurdles to be used in the track meet.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Mr. Miller received letters last week from Peru College highly complimenting the debate team which met Peru, April 3.

Mr. Beck of the English department, who was unable to attend the debate, wrote, "I am told that the men of yours showed that you had coached them. They excelled in delivery."

Mr. Albright of the History department said, "We feel that we met a mighty fine team and coach. We feel that we had a good and worthy opponent and we want to see you win the championship in the Missouri League."

Mr. Miller received calls last week for the delivery of commencement addresses at Fairfax, Linden, and Lockspring. On account of previous engagements, Mr. Miller was not able to accept.

Mr. Miller talked at Assembly at Peru College, April 3, on "Education for Culture." The value of a cultural education from the individual standpoint was pointed out. It was shown that while the trend has been strenuous along the line of social advancement and athletics, we need to emphasize the intellectual phase.
While at the college, Mr. Miller visited for a short time at the Training School. The building is a model of architecture and the school equipment is excellent. Mr. Miller was greatly impressed with the attitude of co-operation and sociability among the students and teachers.

The debate teams are practicing daily for the coming meet with Springfield and Kirksville.

Hold Joint Meeting

Last Thursday afternoon the three literary societies held a joint meeting in the Excelsior room. An unusually entertaining program was enjoyed. Leslie Holcomb was the chairman of the meeting. Following is a summary of the program.

One Hundred Seniors Apply for Degrees

Dean Colbert reports that exactly one hundred seniors have applied for degrees, some of which will be granted at the close of the spring quarter, and the others at the end of the summer term. There are other seniors expecting to receive degrees this year who have not yet filed their application with Dean Colbert.

The latest additions to the list of applicants are: Eunice Gromer, now teaching in St. Joseph; Harold Wiseman, a teacher in the Schools of St. Anthony, Iowa; and Leona Badger, a member of the faculty of the Barnard High School. They will all be in school this summer to complete their work.

Lose Dual Track Meet

The Bearcat track team lost its first dual track meet to Missouri Wesleyan at Cameron, Saturday, April 11.

The Bearcats took four firsts and a tie for another first out of thirteen events. J. Smith won the mile run, the time being 4:47 3-10. Peoples won the high jump at 5 feet 7 1/2 inches and tied for the pole vault at 11 feet. Joy won the javelin throw, distance 149 feet 9 inches. Dr. Bell Speaks - On First Aid

"First Aid and Injuries" was the subject of an address given by Dr. Charles T. Bell to Miss Manley's first hour class in First Aid and Sex Hygiene, last Friday morning. Dr. Bell discussed the origin of First Aid, and its development, stating that Germany was the first country to introduce first aid.

Dr. Bell gave information on the treatment to be given in cases of fractures, hemorrhages, drowning, and sunstroke, stating that equally important to administering relief to the patient is the accurate diagnosis of the patient's condition.

Coat Labels And Track Meet Medals

A hundred different gold and silver medals will be awarded during the Track Meet this week to the winners. As in the past, the winners of these medals proudly display them on the lapels of their coats.

What if coat labels were worn on lapels like track meet medals? What a vast array of young men, displaying the "Society Brand" label, you would see.

These labels are won by men who are winners. Winners in the daily contests of life—and winners in good judgment as shown by the wise economical selection of their clothes.

No Track Meets 50 Years Ago

Track meets were unheard of when this bank, the oldest in Nodaway County, opened its doors for the first day's business. We have watched with approving eye the growth of educational institutions. We heartily endorse the track meet with its high type of boys and girls and the keen, sportsmanlike competition it fosters.

The one big race of life—with success and financial independence for the winner—is the same now as it was fifty years ago. It's a handicap race with the odds favoring the boy and girl who have education and thrift. The Northwest Missouri State Teachers College here is splendidly equipped to give you this education at a minimum cost. We believe that our bank can help you to cultivate thrift by advising wise spending.

We hope you'll be here this week for the Track Meet. We hope you will come back next fall. And we hope to be able to serve you when you come.

Birdie Ray Writes of Work in Pennsylvania

From Birdie Ray, a graduate of S. T. C., comes a letter telling of her work in the State Normal School at Indiana, Pennsylvania. In part her letter, which was received by Miss Dora B. Smith of the Education department, follows:

"I read every word of the 'Green and White' and I enjoy keeping in touch with my college friends and the various activities of the College."

"Life at Indiana Normal is very busy but to me extremely interesting. This school plant is considered by all who know it as one of the best in the State. The school owns 27 1/2 acres of land in the town, of which 23 acres are in the campus. The Training School, Recitation Hall, Clark Hall, Sutton Hall (Girl's Dormitories) are the principal buildings. Sutton Hall (this is my home), in addition to providing accommodations for twenty-six women teachers and five hundred and fifty girls, houses also the library, office, recreation hall, several parlors, the infirmary, auditorium, kitchen and dining room, laundry and conservatory of music."

"This school is a real school home in the sense that it provides living conditions for its students. There are a few day students who live at home and come in on the morning trains and trolleys."

"So many living together creates problems that we have not had to meet in our Western schools as yet. For example, I am advisor for forty girls who live in the same wing of the building with me. This duty consists in seeing that everything is orderly, that study hours are observed, and that every girl retires at 10 P. M. My girls are all lovely and we enjoy many happy moments together. This extra duty in the evening makes the day very long, but it is not heavy work."

"The training department is the center around which this school is built. It surely manufactures teachers."

"Of the ninety faculty members, twenty-five are connected with the training department. The regular Training School on the campus (that is where I work) has six, supposed to be well qualified and highly trained teachers. We do most of the demonstrating for the class observations in methods taught in the Normal. To afford working places for the many student teachers, various rooms in the different grade buildings in the city are used as training rooms. Also a Junior High Training department is run in the building next to me. This uses four of the highly trained critics. In addition to the regular critics, we have the specials for music, art and physical training."

"The director of the Training School—Miss Ackerman is a woman of unusual ability, and it is a joy to work with her. I am getting along fine and never at any time have I been made to feel that the faculty at Maryville S. T. C., is inferior in any particular to this faculty in the school many years older that clings tenaciously to its old traditions."

"I have promised to work in the summer school, and will have either supervision in the Junior High department or intermediate for next year."

The Stroller

By ????

The Stroller has had a hard time this week, trying to recover from his vacation, ward off the spring fever, keep her instructors informed as to how bright she is, and at the same time see everything that happens at the college.

Everyone else has been busy, too. Even Miss Katherine Franken came into the Library, the other day and looked all over the desk for a pencil which wasn't there and didn't have time to take her own out of her hair.

A new student who was doing some practice work in the Library last week made a mistake and charged up a dozen copies of "Snappy Stories" to a certain student. The student, not noticing the title said, "I didn't borrow those 12 books, but I believe we used those last summer in Education 24." Could it be possible? The Stroller wishes Education 24 were a requirement.

"Casey" Fouts, "Sheenie" Wilson, Burley Lucas and Werner Moentman haven't taken physical training for nothing. Anyway, it is rumored that one of the boys pulled the iron railing off the end of one of the seats in a Burlington R. R. coach, on the way up from St. Joe after vacation.

It isn't known just what the conductor thought about it, but wouldn't it be wonderful to have such strength?

The Stroller didn't write this "pome" but he wishes to pass it on without comment:

"A chewing student and a chewing cow,"

There is a difference, I avow.
But what is it? Oh, I have it now!
It's the intelligent look on the face of the cow."

One day last week the Stroller heard some masculine voice say "Girle, where did you get those wonderful eyes?" Always alert for news the Stroller hid securely to enjoy the rest of the conversation, after the discovery that it was a journalist friend trying to interview a stranger. It was a long and heated discussion and finally wound up in the exchanging of addresses et cetera. Although the journalist received no news for the Courier, the Stroller obtained some.

It seems as if the Stroller can't help bumping into embarrassing situations, because only a few doors from the bookstore she saw a co-ed rush up and take hold of the arm of one of the fellows and say, "Darling, I just can't go—" The conversation ceased. Horror-stricken the girl realized she was addressing the wrong fellow. It is hard for the Stroller to decide which one blushed the most. Perhaps if she studies over it for a while she will tell you in the next edition.

Miss DeLuce Speaks To Women's Clubs

Miss DeLuce gave an illustrated lecture to the Art section at the state meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs on "The Art of Maryville," April 10.

Miss DeLuce urged that more art be placed in the schools and that the art department of the club use its influence to promote this project. Examples of soap sculpture, designs, lampshades, and luncheon sets made by students in the college art classes were displayed.

Lantern slides of the Post Office, Farmer's Trust Bank, Poland China Building, Physician's Building, some of the church buildings, and the private residences of Mr. Foster, James Robinson, and J. F. Colby were shown to illustrate different types of architecture in Maryville. These were followed by scenes of the College buildings and college grounds.

Miss DeLuce made a plea for more landscape gardening and said that much of the Beauty of Maryville was due to the planting of trees and flowers.

IN APPRECIATION.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank the Faculty and the girls of Residence Hall for their many acts of kindness toward me during my recent stay at St. Francis Hospital. Particularly do I wish to thank those who sent flowers, books, magazines, etc., and to assure you these kindnesses shall never be forgotten."

Gladys B. Andrews.

Miss Andrews left the hospital April 9 for her home at Higbee, Missouri, accompanied by her mother. She seemed to suffer no ill effects from the trip.

Club Plans Tournament

At a meeting of the Tennis Club, two tournaments were planned, men's singles and women singles. There will be two classes in each tournament, a class for beginners and a class for those who have played. This will keep the inexperienced players from drawing the experienced.

Floyd Cook, J. A. DeMotte and Marie Chandler were appointed on a committee to make a set of regulations concerning the tournament and also regulations for the club.

Lorene Bruckner, Vernon Goslee, and Rosella Froman have charge of the drawings for the tournament. They will also decide upon medals for the winners.

Miss Keith has been in Kansas City since Easter vacation consulting a physician there.
